MANDRAGORA DUO

DANIEL SARKIS AND JORGE BRASIL

Daniel Sarkis and Jorge Brasil formed Mandragora Duo in 1999 in Brasilia city, Brazil. Their instrumental music has been developed upon a fusion of Classic Music, Latin American Folk Music and World Music.

Their music identity carries involving feelings and exquisite technique. They evoke the velvetiness of an acoustic guitar sound and the strength of the steel strings(6 and 12 string-acoustic guitar). In addition, they stand out for the utilization of different tunings and polyrhythms in their songs in order to extend the sound possibilities of their instruments. They are always pursuing unique melodies and rhythms that speak for them.

As representatives of instrumental music in Brazil, the duo has already performed in some music festivals, and jazz pub's in Brazil. They also performed abroad in countries such as Cuba, Guatemala, Peru, Venezuela and Spain.

Mandradora's music flows beyond limits, beyond languages and styles. It touches everyone deeply.

Mandradora Duo released the debut studio album in 2004, homonymously named "Mandradora" and they are currently promoting their second album "Paralelo 31" which has just been released in the beginning of 2014.

Currently, Mandragora is working with a conceptual concert in which songs and videos complement themselves involving the audience in a visual and musical atmosphere.
